

Business is unpredictable. The factors that shape your ability to do business are equally unpredictable. While you might have all the necessary liability and commercial policies in place, you may be neglecting one glaring oversight: combining them.

A Business Owners Policy, known as BOP, combines business liability protection from products liability to premises liability and adds to that business property insurance for your building and your business contents create an over-arching, comprehensive North Carolina insurance policy. By combining your business property insurance and your business liability insurance into one package, businessowners policies can offer additional protections at little or no cost to you. These additional coverages include, but are not limited to, business income insurance, extra expense insurance, valuable papers and records insurance, accounts receivables insurance, equipment insurance, employee dishonesty insurance, employment practices liability insurance and many other coverages.
