

What is General Liability Insurance?

If you're asking yourself this question, chances are you are a business owner. Often general liability insurance is included as part of a package of protections that make up a commercial insurance package policy or a business owners policy. General liability insurance is designed to protect your company from liability arising out of your premises locations, called premises liability insurance, as well as liability arising out of the products you make, call products liability insurance.

Do You Need General Liability Insurance?

A common misconception of General Liability Insurance is that you have to own a multi-million dollar company in order to purchase it; this is NOT the case. Every business should have liability coverage. All businesses are huge investments and should be protected from the damages of liability issues.

Don't Waste Another Second...

Call Clinard Insurance Group today for more information on General Liability Insurance. We are a business too, so we understand the importance of protecting everything you have worked so hard to build. We insure nearly one thousand different businesses and we will be happy to put our experience to work for you right away. We will take as much time as you need to help you understand the liability risks that your business faces and how general liability insurance can help you reduce those risks.