

Generally you should shop for an agent on line, then let the agent help you with the insurance quoting and rating process. An independent agent will have access to many different insurance companies and should be able to help you obtain the best coverage at the lowest cost to you. Insurance is complicated and reducing the decision making process to just a price from a do it yourself quote could leave you with inadequate protection after a loss.