comprehensive coverage for your client's vehicles whether you are at fault in the loss or not.

If you choose legal liability coverage, then these claims will only be covered if your repair or body shop can be found to be legally liable for the loss.

Of course the direct coverage will be a bit more expensive but you may choose it so that you can quickly pay the damages caused to any of your client's cars.

The second question that you will want to answer is whether or not you want to purchase Primary or Excess coverage on your garagekeepers coverage. Primary coverage means that your insurance policy will pay, first dollar on the covered loss, while excess coverage will only kick in an pay when there is no coverage on your client's insurance policy, or if the limits of your client's policy are not high enough to cover the loss.

Of course the primary option is more expensive but it may generate better client relationships if you are paying the claim and not forcing them to file on their own personal auto insurance

At Clinard Insurance Group in Winston Salem, NC, we write over 300 garage policies in 4 different states and we can help you make sure that your policy is set up correctly so that you can have the best possible protection at the lowest possible price.
